

Diploma Policy (College of Humanities and Sciences, Sociology)

The College of Humanities and Sciences at Nihon University confers the degree of Bachelor of Sociology upon those who, under the Nihon University Educational Charter, have acquired the necessary understanding of the Purpose and Mission of Nihon University, and have developed the abilities that constitute autonomous creativity: learning independently, thinking independently, and forging one's own path.

[DP1]

Be able to enhance one's ethical engagement with and sense of responsibility towards society, based on a broad and rich knowledge and culture, as well as the frameworks and methods of sociology.

[DP2]

Be able to understand the problems faced by the international community and explain the complexity and diversity of contemporary society, from everyday life to the international community.

[DP3]

Be able to collect data and literature in accordance with the nature of social phenomena and issues, and logically and critically think about the complexity and diversity of contemporary society.

[DP4]

Be able to observe and examine social phenomena and issues based on sociological frameworks and methods, as well as identify and understand problems, and propose appropriate solutions.

[DP5]

Be able to boldly and with perseverance engage in the discovery and resolution of social issues, and the reform of sociology, through research and studies centered on sociological theories and empirical research.

[DP6]

Be able to listen to others' opinions, understand and respect differing values, convey one's own thoughts, and engage in discussions with others, through research and studies centered on sociological theories and empirical research.

[DP7]

Be able to exercise leadership necessary for teamwork by engaging in dialogue and discussion, and provide appropriate support to collaborators through research and studies centered on sociological theories and empirical research.

[DP8]

Be able to demonstrate reflective thinking and self-management skills by critically reflecting on one's own actions and attitudes, through research and studies centered on sociological theories and empirical research.